

How to Visit Alpe di Siusi, Italy: The Largest Alpine Pasture in Europe

Blog > Europe > Italy > Dolomites

Alpe di Siusi (Seiser Alm in German, Mont Sëuc in Ladin) is the largest high-alpine pasture in Europe, covering a surface area of 56 square kilometers.

Located in South Tyrol in Northern Italy, this impressive Dolomites plateau invites visitors to amble across its rolling pastures unhurriedly.

Here, mountains collide with soft meadows, creating a mesmerizing landscape full of contrast and beauty. In summer, Alpe di Siusi looks like a sea of rolling green waves, dotted with wooden hay huts. In winter, snow blankets the plateau, transforming Alpe di Siusi into the quintessential winter wonderland.

Visiting Alpe di Siusi is a top priority for most Dolomites visitors. In this guide, you'll find out how to get to Alpe di Siusi, when to visit, where to hike, and where to stay.

Alpe di Siusi Map

The Alpe di Siusi plateau is located in the Italian Dolomites high above Val Gardena/Gröderntal, Castelrotto/Kastelruth, and Siusi allo Sciliar/Seis am Schlern.

This vast high-altitude pasture stretches between the mighty Sassolungo/Langkofel Group, Sciliar/Schlern massif, Bulacia/Puflatsch and Monte Piz/Petz.

The southern part of Alpe di Siusi is located within the protected Sciliar-Catinaccio Nature Park.

There are two alpine settlements on Alpe di Siusi: Compaccio (1860 meters) and Saltria (1680 meters).

When to Visit

Summer Season: Early June until late October

In summer, Alpe di Siusi is a popular walking and biking destination. The Ortisei-Alpe di Siusi Gondola and the Alpe di Siusi Aerial Cableway usually operate between late May and late October/early November.

Alpe di Siusi mountain huts and alpine pasture huts (Schwaige/Alm/Malga) are also usually open from late May until late October. Check opening times of specific huts, before planning your visit, because opening times are always subject to change.

We've visited Alpe di Siusi in early July, August, and October. Our most memorable visit was in early July when the entire plateau was carpeted in wildflowers.

Winter Season: Early December until early April

Alpe di Siusi attracts every type of winter sport enthusiast between early December and late March, or early April.

Seiser Alm is part of the Val Gardena ski area (181 km of ski slopes), which is part of the greater Dolomiti Superski network. In addition to catering to downhill skiers, Alpe di Siusi is a popular destination for cross-country skiing, toboggan rides, and snow shoeing.

Alpe di Siusi Ski-in Ski-out hotels | Sporthotel Sonne (4-star hotel with on-site ski rental) and Hotel Paradiso Pure.Living (vegan luxury hotel), Hotel Steger-Dellai (4-star hotel), and Como Alpina Dolomites (5-star hotel with in-house ski rental service). Only some of these hotels can be reached by car (winter tires, or 4×4 mandatory), or taxi. Other hotels offer a transfer service in special snow vehicles from Compatsch.

Top 5 Alpe di Siusi Hiking Trails

1. Hans and Paula Steger Trail

The Hans and Paula Steger Path (“Hans und Paula Steger Weg” in German, “Sentiero Hans e Paula Steger” in Italian) is an easy hiking trail which connects Compaccio/Compatsch with Saltria atop Alpe di Siusi.

This popular Alpe di Siusi walk is named after Hans Steger and Paula Wiesinger, two prominent South Tyrolean mountaineers and skiers who created a foundation for the natural conservation of the Alpe di Siusi plateau.

The path ambles across rolling mountain pastures and pockets of forest, delivering memorable views of the Sassolungo/Langkofel and Sciliar/Schlern mountain groups.

Along the way, you can detour to some of Alpe di Siusi’s most acclaimed alpine pasture huts for gourmet South Tyrolean cuisine.

Trail Stats

Cableway Ascent | Alpe di Siusi Aerial Cableway

2. Compaccio – Rifugio Bolzano – Rifugio Alpe di Tires Loop

This is a full-day adventure for enthusiastic hikers, who want to summit the Schlern plateau and see the Catinaccio/Rosengarten mountains up close.

Starting at Compaccio/Compatsch, the trail crosses the Alpe di Siusi meadows to Saltnerhütte in Tschapit.

Next, the path ascends to the Sciliar/Schlern Plateau, home to the castle-like Rifugio Bolzano (Schlernhaus). From the refuge, it's possible to detour (20 minutes one-way) to Monte Pez/Petz (2563 m), the highest point of Sciliar/Schlern.

The trail traverses the high plateau of Sciliar Altopiano and then descends dramatically between the Sciliar massif and Catinaccio mountains to Rifugio Alpe di Tires.

From Rifugio Alpe di Tires, you'll hike over the Denti di Terrarossa/Rosszähne peaks and descend back to Alpe di Siusi.

Cableway Ascent | Alpe di Siusi Aerial Cableway. It's better to drive up to Compaccio early in the morning, or stay atop the plateau, due to the length of this trail.

Trailhead | Compaccio/Compatsch

Distance | 21.6 km circuit

Time Needed | 8 hours

Difficulty | Moderately Difficult

3. Compaccio to Rifugio Alpe di Tires

Rifugio Alpe di Tires is a first-rate refuge, located on the Passo Alpe di Tires/Tierser Alpl Sattel mountain pass, between the Sciliar/Schlern Group, the Catinaccio/Rosengarten Group and the Sassolungo/Langkofel Group. It's one of our favorite huts in the Dolomites because of the modern interiors and the delicious food.

We highly recommend hiking to Rifugio Alpe di Tires via the Rifugio Bolzano circuit trail outlined above. However, if you have less time, you can do an out-and-back hike from Compaccio.

From Compaccio, follow trail 7, which is a paved road, up to the Panorama restaurant.

From the Panorama restaurant, follow trail 2 across rolling meadows to the Sciliar/Schlern massif. A series of boardwalks guide walkers across marshy areas of the plateau.

Hike up the steep switchbacks to the Forcella Denti di Terrarossa/Rosszahnscharte saddle. This part can be more challenging due to the scree.

Once you crest the Forcella Denti di Terrarossa/Rosszahnscharte saddle, you'll be greeted with wondrous views of the Catinaccio/Rosengarten mountains.

Turn right and follow the narrow footpath down to the red-roofed Rifugio Alpe di Tires/Tierser Alpl mountain hut. We highly recommend eating a long, leisurely lunch here.

For the best views of the hut, continue along the partially secured trail 3A in the direction of Passo Molignon/Molignonpass.

When we hiked to Tierser Alpl the first time, we returned to Alpe di Siusi by the same route. However, you can descend to Alpe di Siusi via trails 4, 8, 7 (see map).

4. Alpe di Siusi to Monte Pana

This easy-going Alpe di Siusi walk starts at the Ortisei-Alpe di Siusi gondola mountain station. You'll follow trail 9 all the way to Saltria, steadily descending almost the whole time.

At Saltria, the hike continues along trail 30 to the Monte Pana Plateau. From Monte Pana, you'll descend to Santa Cristina, a village in Val Gardena.

5. Alpe di Siusi Meadows Circuit Trail

Our Alpe di Siusi Meadows Loop Trail combines the best part of the Alpe di Siusi-Monte Pana Trail with the best stretch of the Hans and Paula Steger Path. It stays on the plateau the whole time, ambling across rolling meadows. This route doesn't scale mountains, or descend to the valley.

If you're based in Val Gardena, this is the best way to see Seiser Alm in a few hours.

From the Ortisei-Alpe di Siusi gondola mountain station, follow trail 9 to Schgaguler Schwaige and all the way down to Saltria, a small settlement on the plateau.

Next, ascend the Hans and Paula Steger Trail (trail 30) in the direction of Compaccio/Compatsch, detouring to Gostner Schwaige and Rauchhütte along the way.

Complete the circuit to the Ortise-Alpe di Siusi gondola mountain station via Baita Sanon.

Alpine Pasture Huts

While you're out exploring idyllic Alpe di Siusi, you'll likely pass several alpine pasture huts (Schwaige, Baita, Alm, Malga). These huts are perfect destinations for lunch or a snack.

Alpe di Siusi Alpine pasture huts are generally open from late May/early June until the end of October and from early December until early April. Some huts are closed on certain days of the week (e.g. Wednesdays). Before planning your visit, we recommend checking the opening times of individual huts.

Gostner Schwaige

Gostner Schwaige (1900 m) produces their own alpine dairy products. They pride themselves on only preparing dishes with fresh and seasonal ingredients. Try their Heublütensuppe, a soup made of hay, flowers, and 15 different herbs, served in a bread bowl. It's delicious!

You can detour to Gostner Schwaige when hiking the Hans and Paula Steger Trail, or the Alpe di Siusi Meadows Circuit Trail.

Location: Saltria 13, 39040 Alpe di Siusi | Google Maps

Rauchhütte (1850 m) is a gourmet mountain hut restaurant well-known for its excellent selection of wine, delicious food, and friendly service.

It's easy to linger here for hours, eating and drinking, whilst savoring the view of mighty Sassolungo.

Rauchhütte is closed on Wednesdays.

You can detour to Rauchhütte when hiking the Hans and Paula Steger Trail, or the Alpe di Siusi Meadows Circuit Trail.

Location: Saltria 29, 39040 Alpe di Siusi | Google Maps

Baita Sanon

Baita Sanon/Sanon Hütte (1849 m) is a charming hut with an enviable view of Sassolungo. Serving traditional South Tyrolean and Ladin cuisine, Baita Sanon is the perfect place for a lunch break. The hut is a 35-minute walk from the Ortisei-Alpe di Siusi gondola mountain station (Trail 6B).

The Alpe di Siusi Meadows Circuit Trail leads to this picturesque hut.

Laranzer Schwaige

Located at the top of the Floralpina chairlift mountain station, this yummy hut is a favorite among skiers and hikers walking the Hans and Paula Steger Trail. The food at Laranzer Schwaige (1925 m) is delicious and the service is swift.

Car

It's only possible to drive up to Alpe di Siusi before 9 am or after 5 pm.

Note: If the Compaccio car park reaches capacity before 9 am, the road leading up to Compaccio will close before 9 am.

The road to Compaccio is closed to private traffic between 9 am and 5 pm. You can drive down at any time.

Car Park | Park at the P2 car park at Compaccio. Exact Location: Google Maps

Parking Fee | The P2 parking fee is 26.50 EUR.

More Info | Read more about Alpe di Siusi regulations and access restrictions.

Off-Season | When the Alpe di Siusi Aerial Cableway isn't operating (mid-April to mid-May and early November – early December), the road to Compaccio is open to private traffic all day long. The P2 car park costs 13 EUR off-season.

Alpe di Siusi Hotel Guests | Hotels provide driving permits to overnight guests. On your day of arrival, you can drive to your hotel at anytime. During your stay on Alpe di Siusi, it's only possible to drive your car before 10 am or after 5 pm.

Given the price and convenience of the cableways, there's no reason to drive to Alpe di Siusi. The only reason you may want to drive to Compaccio before 9 am is to witness the sunrise on the plateau.

Bus

Seiser Alm Express (Bus Route 10) connects Siusi/Seis to Compaccio/Compatsch.

Almbus (Bus Route 11) connects Saltria to Compaccio. This bus may be useful if you descended along the Hans and Paula Steger Trail from Compaccio to Saltria and you don't want to hike back up.

Alpe di Siusi Hotels

Sporthotel Sonne

Sunrise & Sunset Views | Sporthotel Sonne is the best place to stay if you're eager to experience dreamy sunrises, where thin veils of mist hover over the rolling pastures, and burning sunsets, where blazing colors mutate from shades of peach and rose to burning hues of crimson and purple. Sporthotel Sonne is a quick walk to the best photography spots on the plateau. In addition to its stellar location, it's a first-rate modern hotel with a striking wellness area (Sassolungo-facing infinity pool, saunas, relaxation rooms) and an innovative kitchen (breakfast, afternoon cakes, and 5-course dinner are included in the rate).

Vegetarian-Vegan Gourmet Cuisine | Paradiso Pure Living Vegetarian-Vegan Hotel occupies a uniquely central location on Alpe di Siusi, ideal for hiking and skiing. Come here for the excellent, high-quality vegetarian and vegan cuisine (breakfast and dinner included in the rate) and idyllic setting. The hotel's wellness area encompasses a zerobody floating experience, an indoor salt-water swimming pool, outdoor salt-water whirlpool, infrared sauna, Finnish sauna, steam bath, hay sauna, tea bar and relaxation area.

Sassolungo/Langkofel and Sciliar/Schlern mountains from its divine location, Alpina Dolomites boasts panoramic mountain views, a contemporary wellness area, and gourmet restaurant. The hotel design is inspired by nature and stitches together a neutral color palette with raw materials. The wellness area comprises a panoramic indoor-outdoor swimming pool, classic Finnish sauna, herbal sauna, saline steam bath, fitness room, and spa.

Hello! I'm a spirited traveler on a quest to hike in the most picturesque alpine and coastal destinations across Europe. In 2016, I left my home and job in San Francisco, California, to move to Germany, and later Austria. The following year, I created this blog to help like-minded travelers experience new and exciting ways to travel authentically. I travel to hike, and I hope to inspire your next adventure.

Hello! Loving the site as we plan our honeymoon in the Dolomites! We will be there a total of 7 days, starting in the Stevio region.

Afterwards, we head to Seiser Alm. Initially, we planned to just do a day hike in the Alpe De Siusi but after reading one of your awesome posts, decided we have to stay overnight at Rifugio de Tires. From here, we would like to hike to another hut, and possibly stay a third night in a hut. What are your recommendations for staying 1 extra night or 2 extra nights in a hut?

We will have a car and so can be flexible on where we start/end. Maybe Rifugio de Tires shouldn't be our first stop? I read your post on the 3 day hike that starts in Carezza but it doesn't seem like we would be able to spend time in the Alpe de Siusi (We have 3.5 full days max to spend on this portion of the trip!)

Thank you so much!!

Hi! I would love to see the sunrise view at Alpe Di Siusi but the hotels are so expensive up there. Is my option limited to parking at Compatsch and walking an hour to viewpoint? Could I just park around the viewpoint since it is before 9am?

Thank you!

Hi Candice,

You must park at the official car park and walk to the viewpoint. The way to the Alpe di Siusi sunrise viewpoint mostly follows a road, so it's an easy sunrise adventure. You cannot drive to the viewpoint.

Hello!

Thank you so much for the helpful information on your page. We're planning a visit to Alpe di Siusi by car to catch the sunrise and aim to arrive by 6 am. I understand that parking is available at the P2 car park in Compaccio. Once parked, could you please guide us on how to reach the main photo spot featured in your pictures? Specifically, we'd like to know where we should walk from the car park to get the best views of the meadows.

Thank you in advance for your assistance!

Hello! My partner and I would like to travel to the Dolomites to do some beginner skiing in early January. Alpe di Siusi has been recommended to us. We would like to travel by public transport. Is there anywhere you would suggest that is the best to stay? We are pretty flexible! Thank you!

Hi Stef,

There are ski-in ski-out hotels directly on Alpe di Siusi plateau. Otherwise, the town of Ortisei (St. Ulrich) in Val Gardena is probably the best base. You would then have the option to ski on the other side of the valley (Seceda). Seis am Schlern (Seis am Schlern) is another option, though a bit harder to get to with transit.

Hello, Awesome guide! I'm reading your blogs for my upcoming 10 day trip to Dolomites..

Question: Which of these 2 hikes of Alpe di Suisi do you recommend most from your top 5:

The Seiser Alm Meadows Circuit Trail or the Hans and Paula Steger Trail?

If I did the Hans and Paula trail can I start from Ortisei via gondola or do I have to drive to Suisi to take the gondola and start from there?

I will be based in Ortisei and will also have a car.

Thank you!

Hi Alejandro,

The Seiser Alm Meadows Circuit integrates the most scenic section

the plateau. If you're based in Val Gardena, the only reason to drive to Siusi is if you want to hike the Rifugio Bolzano – Rifugio Alpe di Tires circuit trail.

Thank you for your quick response and guidance Sabrina! I am now following your account on Instagram.

Does it get very cold up in the mountains in October? Trying to figure out what to pack for the mountain hikes/trekks for 10 days in October..

I know the weather can be unpredictable which makes it hard to plan and figure out what to pack..

We will do Croda da Lago, Tre Cime + Misurina, Alpe di Siusi, Géiser Alm/Adolf Munkel, Seceda, Lago di braies, Sassolungo, etc..

Thanks again for your guidance.

Sabrina BrettSeptember 28, 2024 at 2:09 pm

Hi Alejandro,

It can certainly be cold in October. In October, it's not unusual for the temperature to hover around 0°C in the morning. So, we usually start hikes in a puffer jacket until we warm up. We always pack a rain jacket, sunglasses, beanie, gloves, microspikes, and hiking poles. We typically wear long hiking pants paired with a hiking vest over a long-sleeve merino shirt most of the day. Or, a merino zip-up jacket. See specific recommendations in our hut-to-hut packing list.

Kindly,

Hello! Thanks so much for this detailed post. We are planning a trip with an infant, 4yo, and 6yo this fall. Would love to do the Meadows circuit trail you described, but 14k is probably too much walking for the kids even with stopping at the huts throughout. Are bikes with child trailers allowed on this trail?

Sabrina BrettMarch 28, 2025 at 7:31 pm

Hi Jana,

You can shorten this Seiser Alm hike by taking the bus from Saltria to Compaccio. Ask the Seiser Alm tourist office for the schedule.

There are many cycling paths on Alpe di Siusi, but much of the trail we describe is only for hikers.

Warmly,

Sabrina
