

Sexten Dolomites, Italy: 8 Best Hikes + Map

Blog > Europe > Italy > Dolomites

The Sexten Dolomites (Dolomiti di Sesto in Italian, Sextener Dolomiten in German) is a mountain range in South Tyrol and Belluno in northeastern Italy.

This Dolomites range is bounded by Val Pusteria/Pustertal in the north, Val di Sesto/Sexten Valley in the northeast/east, Val d'Ansiei in the south, and by Val di Landro/Höhlensteintal in the west.

The main focal point of the range is Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen, which are three obelisk-shaped peaks – long-regarded as the symbol of the Dolomites. Ringed by the beautiful Cadini di Misurina and Monte Paterno/Paternkofel, these three solitary peaks stand amidst the most striking pinnacles and ridge-lines of the Dolomites.

Full of history and wonder, the Sexten Dolomites are one of the most beloved hiking and via ferrata climbing destinations in Italy. Whether you hike here for a day, or several weeks, this gorgeous region will leave a lasting impression.

Sexten Dolomites Hiking Map

1. Torre dei Scarperi Circuit Hike

The hike around Torre dei Scarperi (Schwabenalpenkopf in German) is one of the most outstanding day hikes in the Dolomites.

This Sexten day hike starts in Val Campo di Dentro/Innerfeldtal, a side valley of Sesto/Sexten Valley. It connects Rifugio Tre Scarperi/Drei Schuster Hütte with Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte.

From the Antoniusstein Car Park in Val Campo di Dentro, the trail leads through the valley and then ascends around the western flank of Monte Mattina/Morgenkopf to reach the narrow Passo Grande dei Rondoi saddle.

After a short secured scramble, the path crosses the grassy Schwaben Alm and wraps around the southeastern shoulder of Torre dei Scarperi/Schwabenalpenkopf.

To detour to Rifugio Locatelli, skirt the Torre di Toblin/Toblinger Noten and Sasso di Sesto/Sextener Stein.

Trail Stats

Trailhead | Antoniusstein Car Park in Val Campo di Dentro

Distance | 16.7 km lollipop-circuit

Time Needed | 6:20 hours

Elevation Gain/Loss | 1157 meters

Difficulty | Moderately Difficult

2. Cadini di Misurina Viewpoint Hike

The Cadini di Misurina mountains are located in the municipality of Auronzo di Cadore in the Italian province of Belluno in Veneto. They form the southernmost mountain group of the Sexten range.

Though these mountains are striking from multiple angles, there's one vantage point that upstages all others. Nicknamed the Cadini di Misurina Viewpoint and sometimes referred to as the Towers of Mordor, the Cadini di Misurina Viewpoint brings you face-to-face with the northern side of the Cadini di Misurina peaks.

The fastest way to get to the Cadini di Misurina photo spot is by driving, or taking the bus, to Rifugio Auronzo via the Rifugio Auronzo – Tre Cime di Lavaredo toll road.

From the Auronzo hut, it's a 30-40 minute walk to the famous viewpoint. This short hike can easily be combined with the Tre Cime di Lavaredo Circuit trail in a single day.

Trailhead | Rifugio Auronzo

Distance | 3.9 km out-and-back

Time Needed | 1:30 hours

Difficulty | Easy

Elevation Gain/Loss: 144 meters

Learn More: Cadini di Misurina Viewpoint Hike

3. Pratti di Croda Rossa (Rotwandwiesen) Meadows to Passo Monte Croce (Kreuzbergpass) mountain pass

The Prati di Croda Rossa (Rotwandwiesen in German) meadows lie at the foot of the Croda Rossa di Sesto/Sextener Rotwand mountain in the northern Sesto/Sexten Dolomites.

This scenic, family-friendly destination is accessible by cableway from Sesto Moso/Sexten Moos, adjacent to the Bad Moos Dolomites Spa Resort. The Croda Rossa cable car operates between mid-June and mid-October.

You can view the summer schedule and operating times on the dreizinnen website. Parking is free at the cableway valley station. Exact Location: Google Maps.

However, you can forgo the cableway and start the hike further up Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal valley, close to Hotel Dolomitenhof. There's a paid parking lot at the Fischleinboden hut. Exact Location: Google Maps.

The parking machine only accepts cash in the form of coins and 5 EUR or 10 EUR bills.

From the Croda Rossa/Rotwand meadows, we recommend hiking along trail 15/15a, at the base of the Sesto/Sexten mountains, all the way to Passo Monte Croce/Kreuzbergpass mountain pass.

This point-to-point hike offers a lot of variation in a short period of time. You'll hike through pockets of forest as well as across meadows and mountain slopes.

From Passo Monte Croce/Kreuzbergpass, you can hop on bus line 446 back to Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal.

Though this trail is generally straightforward, it's easy to end up following trails 19 and 18 to the pass, as opposed to trail 15, from the Pratti di Croda Rossa meadows. We don't recommend trail 18, because it's a forest road, popular among e-bikers. Trail 15 is a hiking path and far more scenic and enjoyable.

That being said, when you arrive at Pratti di Croda Rossa, the best views of the meadows are along trail 19. So, you may want to walk along trail 19 for 10 minutes, before backtracking and locating trail 15.

4. Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal Valley Trail

Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal is a gorgeous side valley of Valle di Sesto/Sextental, famous for its view of the Sesto/Sexten Sundial.

Many excursions into the Sexten mountains begin in Val Fiscalina, however the valley itself is a wonderful destination for leisurely walking.

m), you'll miss out on the most delightful larch forest path.

Alternatively, you can start this hike directly in the town of Sesto/Sexten. Read our Val Fiscalina guide for trail details.

Starting at the Croda Rossa/Rotwand cable car parking lot, cross the street and locate the bridge over the Rio Fiscalino/Fischleinbach stream.

Turn left and follow this path (Trail 102) to Rifugio Piano Fiscalino/Fischleinbodenhütte (30 minutes).

Walk through the parking lot towards Hotel Dolomitenhof and then continue up the valley along the vibrant meadow.

Straight ahead, the giant Cima Uno/Einserkofel (2698 m), Crode Fiscaline/Oberbachernspitzen (2677 m), Croda dei Toni/Zwölferkofel (3094 m), and Cima Undici/Elferkofel (3092 m) tower above the meadow. Directly east, you'll see Punta Tre Scarperi/Dreischusterspitze (3145 m) – the highest peak in the Sexten Dolomites – Forcella dei Sassi/Steinalpenscharte (2678 m), and Monte Casella/Gsellknoten (2870 m).

After 10 minutes, the trail divides. Take the left trail and follow the river bed to Rifugio Fondo Valle/Talschlusshütte (1548 m), a mountain hut at the head of the valley (20 minutes).

The valley trail terminates here.

In the next section, we'll explain how you can extend this hike all the way to Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen.

5. Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal to Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte Hike

One of the most scenic approaches to the iconic Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen is from Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal.

Starting at the Rifugio Piano Fiscalina/Fischleinbodenhütte paid car park, follow the valley path for about 30 minutes to Rifugio Fondo Valle/Talschlusshütte (1548 m).

From the hut, continue on trail 102 in the direction of Rifugio A. Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte, signed 2:40 hours.

The path ascends very gently to another intersection with a painted signboard, identifying all the significant peaks and side valleys of the immediate surroundings. Head right.

For the next 2 hours, you'll steadily ascend Valle Sasso Vecchio/Altensteinaltal valley between the Einserkofel/Cima Uno (2698 m) and Crode Fiscaline/Oberbachernspitzen (2677 m) peaks (on your left) and There's very little shade along this trail and the stone path reflects the sun like snow. Bring sun protection (hat, sun lotion, and Cat 4 sunglasses like these Julbo Shield Mountain Sunglasses).

After an hour, the trail levels out next to the Altensteinerbach stream. The flat walking is a nice respite, but it doesn't last long.

As you gain elevation, the Monte Paterno/Paternkofel (2476 m) and Croda dei Piani/Bödenknoten (2712 m) dominate your view.

The high-alpine landscape is defined by rugged, sculpturesque peaks, dwarf pine, and solitary larch.

The final stretch to the Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte mountain hut is remarkably easy. You'll walk across meadows, passing above the Laghi dei Piani/Bödenseen lakes, towards the impressive Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen peaks.

Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte directly faces the northern sides of the Three Peaks, making it the ultimate finale to this wonderful day hike. Grab lunch here and savor one of the most cherished vistas in the Dolomites. The hut is open from late June until late September. For exact dates, consult the Rifugio Locatelli website.

Trail Stats

Trailhead | Rifugio Piano Fiscalina/Fischleinbodenhütte car park

Elevation Gain/Loss | 956 meters

Difficulty | Moderate. This trail is not a technically difficult trail, but you need to be acclimated and fit.

Tip | Energetic hikers can return to Val Fiscalina via Val Fiscalina Alta/Bacherntal valley, passing Rifugio Pian di Cengia/Büllelejochhütte and Zsigmondyhütte along the way. This is a stellar lollipop-circuit hike, but it's very long. The 18 km hike takes around 7 hours without breaks.

6. Tre Cime di Lavaredo Circuit Trail

The Val Fiscalina/Fischleintal ascent route to Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen may be the most scenic route, but it's not the fastest.

A far easier way to approach these peaks is by driving the toll road all the way up to Rifugio Auronzo on the Belluno-side. This toll road is usually open from late May/early June until end of October, depending on snow conditions.

Rifugio Auronzo is situated on the southern side of Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen with heart-achingly-beautiful views of the northern Cadini di Misurina group.

From the parking lot at Rifugio Auronzo, you can follow the circuit trail clockwise or counterclockwise around the Three Peaks. We recommend hiking clockwise, heading to Langalm first.

Distance | 9.7 km circuit

Time Needed | 4 hours

Elevation Gain/Loss | 430 meters

Difficulty | Easy – Moderate

7. Sentiero Bonacossa Trail: Northern Circuit

Sentiero Alberto Bonacossa is an exhilarating hiking trail that runs through the dramatic Cadini di Misurina mountain group. The trail unfolds almost cinematically, as you conquer secured passages, narrow ledges, and steep rocky valleys.

We hiked the northern Sentiero Bonacossa route from Rifugio Auronzo to Rifugio Fonda Savio, and looped back to our starting point via Lake Antorno and Trail 101.

Given the ruggedness of the terrain, we highly recommend wearing a climbing helmet for this trail.

Elevation Gain/Loss: 869 meters

Difficulty | Difficult

8. Tre Cime di Lavaredo/Drei Zinnen 3 Day Hut-to-Hut Hike

If you want to combine the Val Fiscalina ascent route with the circuit trail around Tre Cime di Lavaredo, you can link these trails with an overnight in a mountain hut(s). You'll also get to stay in the highest and one of the loveliest refuges in the Sexten Dolomites: Rifugio Pian di Cengia/Büllelejochhütte.

This was the very first hut-to-hut hike we ever did and it's a perfect introduction to multi-day hiking in the Alps. Here's our 3-day Tre Cime trekking guide.

Day 1 | Rifugio Piano Fiscalina/Fischleinbodenhütte car park – Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte (6.8 km, 3:10 hrs)

Day 2 | Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte – Rifugio Lavaredo – Rifugio Auronzo – Langalm – Rifugio Locatelli/Dreizinnenhütte – Rifugio Pian di Cengia/Büllelejochhütte (12.6 km, 6 hours)

Fit and experienced hikers can condense this into 2 days, by completing the loop trail around the three peaks on Day 1.

Here's how we integrated this route into a 7-day Dolomites road trip itinerary.
